

Office of Governor Mitch Daniels

Jan. 7-13, 2008 Volume 2, Issue 64

Weekly wrap-up

Governor Daniels to deliver 2008 State of the State address

Jan. 10, 2007- Governor Mitch Daniels will deliver his fourth State of the State address on Tuesday, January 15, to a joint session of the Indiana General Assembly in the House Chambers. The address will begin at 7 p.m. (EST) and is expected to fit in a 30-minute window.

"This will be the shortest of the speeches I've given and certain the most focused," said Governor Daniels. "I've got one big thing on my mind—the largest tax cut in state history."

The address will be broadcast on local television and radio stations and will be available live on the Internet at www.in.gov/gov.

Jan. 10, 2008— Gov. Daniels spoke to Hoosier business leaders about Indiana's recent economic successes at 'The State of Real Estate' annual event.

Listen to the governor discuss current issues during his weekly media availability.

Governor visits flood damaged areas in northern Indiana

Jan. 9, 2008— Gov. Daniels was joined by State Senator Brandt Hershman, Congressman Steve Buyer and Eric Dietz, Indiana Department of Homeland Security executive director, to discuss flood damage in northern Indiana

Jan. 9, 2008- Governor Daniels and Indiana Department of Homeland Security director Eric Dietz traveled to White and Pulaski counties to survey damage from recent flooding. The governor toured the areas by helicopter then talked with affected homeowners and emergency personnel in Monticello and Winamac.

"When natural disaster comes to Indiana, we don't want to wait on FEMA, we don't wait on Washington," said Daniels. "Hoosiers look after their own."

Jan. 9, 2008— Governor Daniels greets Red Cross volunteer Kathy Fischer at the White County Emergency Operations Center.

Exotic wood supplier to relocate, expand in Jeffersonville

Jan. 11, 2008- Carl F. Booth Veneers, a provider of exotic wood veneers to the executive aircraft industry, announced it will relocate its New Albany operations in Jeffersonville, creating 60 new jobs.

The supplier of veneer wood products will relocate its operation and rare wood inventory to a yet to be built 100,000-square-foot facility in Jeffersonville by the first quarter of 2009.

"Carl F. Booth Veneers is a home-grown Hoosier company that continues to create opportunities for Hoosiers in Southeast Indiana and builds on our strength in the hardwoods industry," said Governor Mitch Daniels.

Read the news release.

A look ahead...

Governor Daniels will travel to Huntingburg and Newburgh this week.

To view past updates, click here.

To visit Governor Daniels' Web site, click here.